SEVENTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COLUMBIA INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF

COLUMBIA INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF,

KENDALL GREEN,

Washington, D. C., September 1, 1930.

SIR: During the fiscal year July 1, 1929, through June 30, 1930, there were under instruction in the advanced department of the institution, known as Gallaudet College, 76 men and 55 women, a total of 131, representing 35 States, the District of Columbia, and Canada. This is an increase of 2 as compared with the preceding year.

In the primary and grammar department, known as the Kendall School, there were under instruction 41 boys and 23 girls, a total of 64. This is an increase of 5 as compared with the preceding year. Of the total in this department, 59 were admitted as beneficiaries of the District of Columbia.

There were admitted to the institution 38 males and 24 females; discharged, 26 males and 15 females.

HEALTH

Unusually good health conditions prevailed during the year. The only serious illness was one case of scarlet fever, which was promptly isolated and successfully treated without affecting the other students. As all new pupils at the time of their physical examinations are given the Dick test and records are carefully kept of the results, it was possible to know just which students were at all in danger of developing the disease. Diphtheria prophylaxis has been regularly administered to all new students and precautions taken by inoculation and vaccination against typhoid fever and smallpox. Several other cases of illness were caused by measles, and these quickly recovered. Two operations for tonsilectomy were successfully carried out with marked improvement in health resulting. The custom of keeping weight charts of all pupils and students was continued, and these charts were studied from time to time in order to know when special diet should be given.

A dental infirmary was operated as usual and the benefits, particularly to the young children, have been cumulative. The general condition of the teeth of pupils and students has been steadily improving.

The usual care has been taken in producing clean milk on our farm, and in seeing that all pupils and students have sufficient regular exercise. More playground equipment was purchased during the year for the younger children. Indoor baseball, basket ball, tennis, golf, swimming, baseball, track meets, and football have been promoted and have served to maintain excellent health and spirits among the pupils and students.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Courses in analytic geometry and strength of materials were added to the usual course during the year for certain of the young men working in architectural drawing. Equipment and instructors for additional courses in business practice and in drawing have been provided for the coming year.

In the Kendall School, through a gift from the family of the former vice-president, Dr. Edward Allen Fay, a steam pressing machine was installed and a limited number of pupils in the Kendall School instructed in this type of work. The experiment was also tried of placing one of the pupils with a first-class shoe repairing man to obtain experience under actual working conditions. A supervising teacher of the primary classes was employed throughout the year to coordinate the work in the lower classes. This teacher also handles a considerable amount of work with the normal training class.

OCCUPATIONS OF GRADUATES

A meeting of the former pupils and graduates of the Kendall School was held in the first part of June at which over 100 visitors were registered. Reports showed only one of the visitors unemployed. Among the pursuits of the graduates of this department noted were printing, carpenter work, repairing, window cleaning, engraving, sculpture, and United States civil service. During the same month letters were sent out to all former students of Gallaudet College, the advanced department of this institution, inquiring as to occupation, salary, and various other vital statistics. Returns received before the close of the fiscal year show practically none of those replying unemployed, while the range of occupations covered a large field, such as architectural work, agriculture, accounting, automobile manufacture, automobile repairing, business such as real estate, bacteriology, banking, chemistry, United States civil service, dentistry, engraving, missionary work among the deaf, newspaper publishing, printing, and teaching. A fuller and more detailed statement will be made in the next annual report of the institution.

NEEDS OF THE INSTITUTION

For a number of years past the graduates of the collegiate department and their friends, believing that a modern building for library, instruction, and other purposes should be erected in memory of Edward Miner Gallaudet, for over half a century president of the institution, have been raising funds for this purpose, and have notified the board of directors of the practical completion of the fund of $50,000 which they set out to obtain. Estimates for $160,000 have been submitted which, together with the gift of the alumni, should provide an Edward Miner Gallaudet Memorial Building and furnish modern library and recitation facilities, particularly for vocational instruction, which have been badly needed for some years. If such a building is provided for in the near future it will probably not be necessary to increase dormitory space for several years.

Further equipment for the teaching of business practice and funds for the expansion of the library should be provided in the near future.

A day watchman should be added to the force of employees and the salary scale of all should be put on a basis where the purchasing power of those working for the institution should at least equal what it was before the World War.
